MILLAR CAMERON AND FOOD & AGRICULTURE

We have an outstanding track record of supporting businesses within food and agriculture, particularly in Africa, as well as the Middle East, South East Asia and the Americas.

We have supported a range of farming businesses, from early stage and private equity backed enterprises to listed multinational agribusinesses. We have a deep understanding of the different personal traits and professional expertise required depending on the size and growth trajectory of the business.

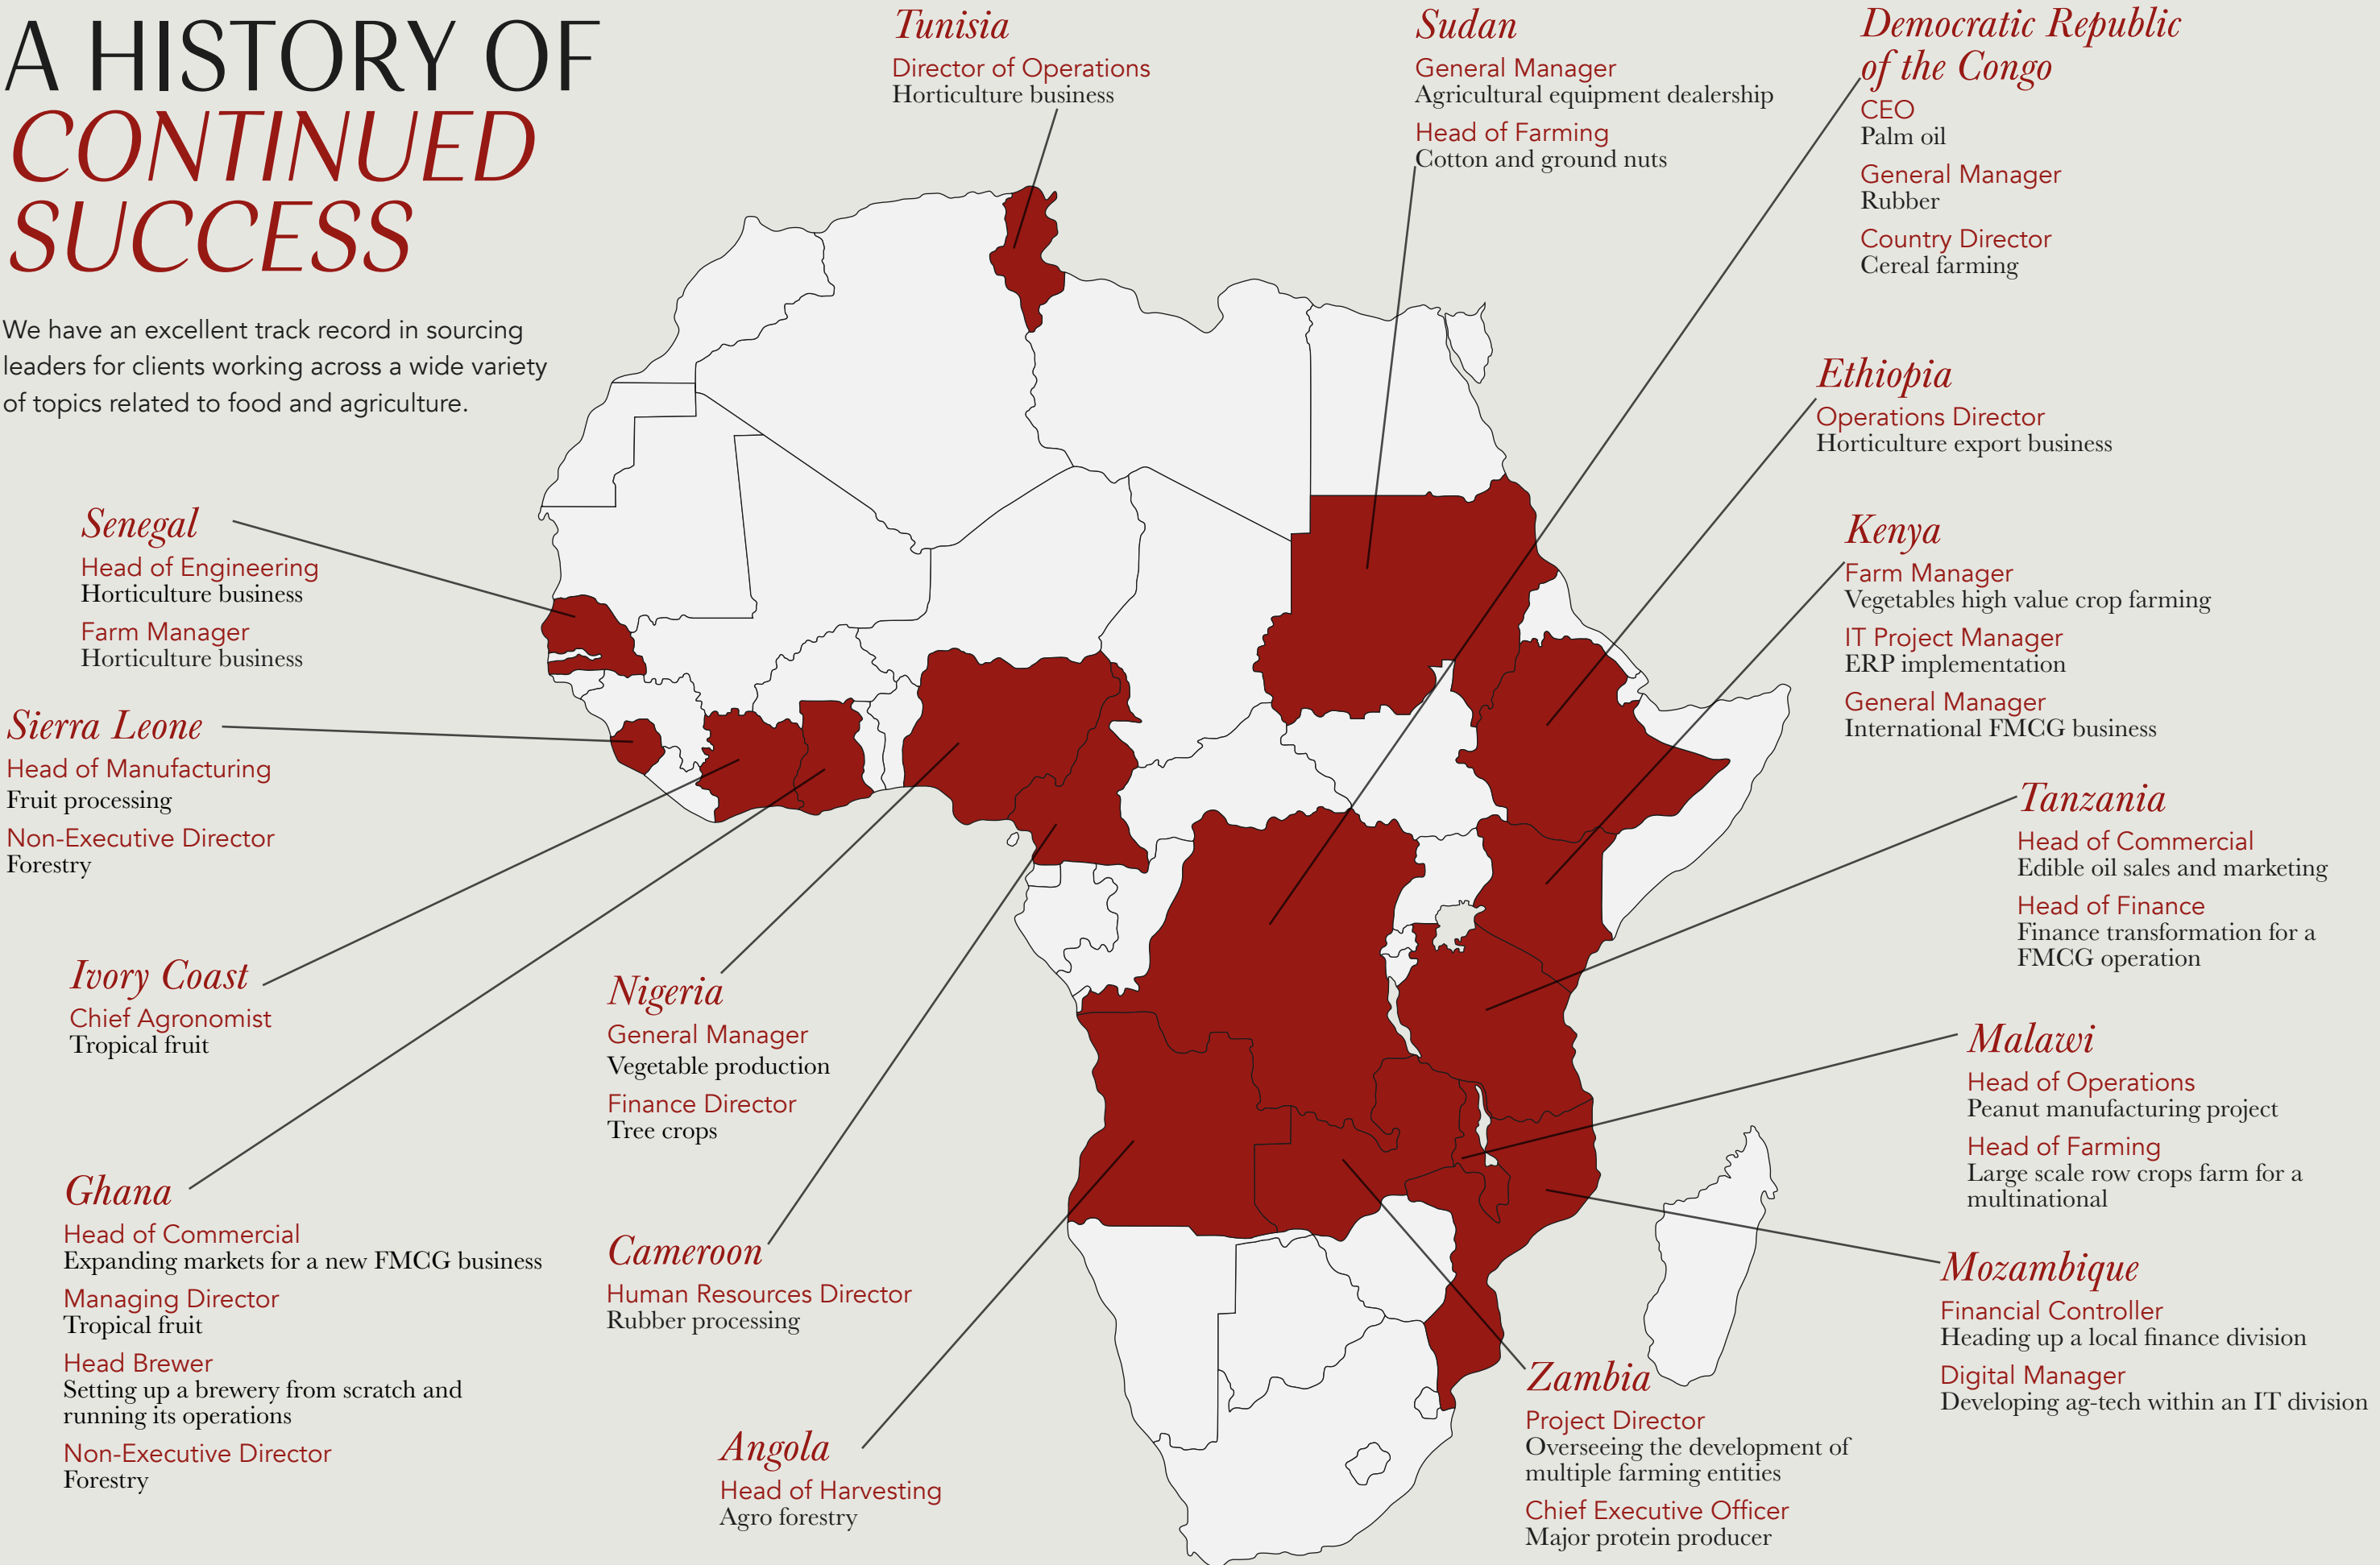

We have extensive experience and vast networks across multiple sub-sectors of food and agriculture, including across primary agriculture, such as crop production (row crops, high value crops, plantations, orchards, hydroponic) and protein production (poultry, pork, beef, dairy). We also support a number of clients in secondary production processing plants within edible oils, meat processing, bottling and canning.

Our expertise and methodology allow us to effectively search for roles across the businesses that we partner with, including executive leadership positions (CEO, CFO, General Managers, etc.), hands-on production roles (Farm Managers, Factory Heads), as well as back office roles (Finance Directors, IT Project Managers, etc.)

A HISTORY OF CONTINUED SUCCESS

We have an excellent track record in sourcing leaders for clients working across a wide variety of topics related to food and agriculture.

UNDERSTANDING FOOD & AGRICULTURE

Millar Cameron has been specialising in the food and agriculture industry for over ten years and it remains one of our key offerings today. Whilst our expertise historically lies in the African continent, we have since leveraged our success in Africa to expand to other emerging markets in Asia and the Americas. Over 50 percent of the African population works in this critical industry, and, paired with rapidly increasing populations across the continent, the food and agriculture industry continues to play an increasingly vital role in achieving both economic and food security.

The success of food and agriculture fluctuates greatly across markets, with geography and subsectors both playing influential roles in the challenges and solutions present. We have seen a significant increase in demand for high value export crops, for example nuts and tropical fruits, with businesses seeking farming professionals with experience spanning multiple crop types, in order to catalyse efficient growth. Our experienced food and agriculture team has developed a nuanced understanding of the types of skilled individuals that are able to adapt to multiple operational styles and we provide clients with detailed strategies for prioritising the most sought-after skillsets.

With the ever-growing use of technology to increase yields in order to meet increasing food demands, we are witnessing a gradual shift in emerging markets to new production models that capitalise on more accurate and efficient farming methods. Technological benefits of more accurate output forecasts are assisting efforts to tackle food insecurity in countries where this threat remains high. With these changes, our clients' talent requirements are also adapting; the demand for a strong understanding of new technologies and how best to manage the transition to working with them from many of the businesses that we work with has led to Millar Cameron developing a comprehensive database of such individuals.

Millar Cameron is eager to assist in developing local talent in the markets that we work in, and we have been delighted to see a vast uptick in demand for local hires at the mid-to-senior management level across a range of food and agriculture subsectors. In some areas, there exists a lack of local talent capacity, however, we are expertly positioned to advise our clients on inclusive strategies that aim to successfully develop future generations of leaders within the local market.

We recognise that the food and agriculture landscape across emerging markets is constantly evolving, bringing new challenges and developments with it. Millar Cameron is committed to furthering the prosperity and success of the food and agriculture businesses that we partner with, by utilising our deep industry expertise and extensive networks.

FIVE STEPS TO RECRUITMENT SUCCESS

Our executive search strategy follows a five-step approach that is tailored to your organisation's requirements:

Define

We discuss all aspects of the role with you, including the capabilities, background, culture and competencies of the desired professional. This allows us to determine the search priorities and parameters, and the criteria against which candidates will be measured.

Develop

We work with you to develop a bespoke outreach strategy that covers specific companies, industries and geographies that you want to target. We employ a combination of search methods, including research, direct headhunting, referrals and our established networks to identify a comprehensive longlist.

Engage

We conduct competency-based interviews that are tailored to the role to thoroughly assess each candidate's fit against your requirements. We ensure that all aspects discussed during the define stage are covered during interviews, before collating the shortlist.

Present

We present you with a pack comprising of a personal profile, interview notes, compensation information, and a detailed curriculum vitae, for each candidate that is shortlisted. We discuss reasons for shortlisting candidates with you and remain involved throughout the selection process, preparing and debriefing candidates after each step.

Close

We conduct detailed reference reports on the selected candidate, and we can also provide background checks and psychometric testing, where necessary. We support you throughout the negotiation process to ensure a successful outcome.
