INTERNATIONAL DEVELOPMENT AND FOOD SECURITY

At Millar Cameron, we are committed to international development and the vital role it plays in improving the quality of myriad spheres of life. In Africa, where the population is expected to double by 2050, the need for international development remains ever important. This rapid increase in population alongside the increasingly visible effects of climate change necessitates a rapid response from governments, who continue to lean on the expertise and aid of international development organisations to react to and plan for such changes.

The barriers presented to food security are felt on a global level. We have developed an expertise in the complex issue of food insecurity in Africa and we are dedicated to supporting non-governmental, not-for-profit and non-profit organisations in their efforts to tackle urgent food systems concerns.

For over 12 years, Millar Cameron has built rewarding partnerships with clients who are working to ensure that there is sufficient nutritious food available for everyone, both now and in the future.

UNDERSTANDING FOOD SECURITY

At Millar Cameron, we are passionate about the importance of food security. Since being founded in 2007, we have partnered with clients across the public, private, and voluntary sectors whose work contributes to enhanced food systems. If we are to meet the second Sustainable Development Goal of ending hunger, achieving food security and improved nutrition, and promoting sustainable agriculture by 2030, a multi-faceted approach is needed to address both immediate and long-term threats.

As barriers to food security continue to multiply, we understand your organisation's need to efficiently engage talented individuals; having the right people in the right roles, as well as cultivating a healthy talent pipeline that ensures your continued success in the future. COVID-19 has wreaked havoc on global food systems, however, it is Africa that suffers the effects of rising food prices and disrupted supply chains most acutely.

The effects of human-induced climate change are also becoming increasingly visible. According to the United Nations, more than half of the global calories produced come from small-scale farms, but many smallholder farmers continue to farm land in a way that reduces soil fertility and biodiversity, and uses excessive amounts of water. We are proud to have sourced key leaders for organisations that work directly with smallholder farmers to increase their opportunity and ability to adopt best farming practices.

Added to climate change are the challenges posed by a rapid increase in population, with Africa's being the fastest growing population in the world. Unlike the ageing populations experienced by developed countries, African countries are experiencing a youth bulge that in turn increases the risk of youth exploitation in agriculture and the level of civil unrest caused by hunger and a lack of economic opportunities.

We are convinced that achieving food security is not only vital to ensure that widespread famine and malnutrition are not experienced, but that the way the issue is approached has and will continue to have a profound impact on reducing conflict and ensuring economic opportunities for people.

We understand the hurdles that our clients are faced with when seeking to recruit professionals with highly sought after and niche skillsets to deliver crucial impact within food security initiatives. Our extensive network of talented professionals coupled with our understanding of your organisation's aims allow us to guide you on recruitment decisions, advising on matters such as regional talent capacity and remuneration, and to ultimately source the most suitable and talented candidates for your requirements.

HOW WE CAN HELP

Our clients are considered our partners and a key element of our approach to each recruitment mandate is to take the time to gain a detailed understanding of your specific requirements, in order to develop a bespoke search strategy that is tailored to your recruitment brief. Having developed an in-depth knowledge of the wide-ranging issues pertaining to food security, along with an extensive network of senior professionals devoted to tackling them, Millar Cameron is expertly positioned to advise on matters such as diversity and inclusion goals, talent capacity and compensation.

FIVE STEPS TO RECRUITMENT SUCCESS

Our executive search strategy follows a five-step approach that is tailored to your organisation's requirements:

1 Define

We discuss all aspects of the role with you, including the capabilities, background, culture and competencies of the desired professional. This allows us to determine the search priorities and parameters, and the criteria against which candidates will be measured.

2 Develop

We work with you to develop a bespoke outreach strategy that covers specific companies, industries and geographies that you want to target. We employ a combination of search methods, including research, direct headhunting, referrals and our established networks to identify a comprehensive longlist.

3 Engage

We conduct competency-based interviews that are tailored to the role to thoroughly assess each candidate's fit against your requirements. We ensure that all aspects discussed during the define stage are covered during interviews, before collating the shortlist.

4 Present

We present you with a pack comprising of a personal profile, interview notes, compensation information, and a detailed curriculum vitae, for each candidate that is shortlisted. We discuss reasons for shortlisting candidates with you and remain involved throughout the selection process, preparing and debriefing candidates after each step.

5 Close

We conduct detailed reference reports on the selected candidate, and we can also provide background checks and psychometric testing, where necessary. We support you throughout the negotiation process to ensure a successful outcome.

Rose Mwende, Senior Consultant

“Countless initiatives and programs in Africa are on a mission to ensure everyone has access to safe and nourishing food. The real magic lies in finding the right people for this crucial task—a direct link to the impact of the incredible work carried out by various organisations. It’s not just about talent; it’s about the people who bring passion and purpose to the table. This connection adds a special touch to our collective efforts, making the journey of discovering talent in this space profoundly rewarding.”

Tracy Dawson, Partner

“Farm to fork. Ship to port. Resilient. Rejuvenative. My clients in agriculture may not love the latest lingo, but they’re deeply aware of how the changing landscape (in particular where Ag-tech is concerned) creates opportunities and threats that can be seen, adjusted for and utilised for competitive advantage. To unlock it, all you need is the right talent. Coming from South Africa, which has amongst the more established commercial farming sectors in the world; I appreciate that at the end of the day it’s about patience and hard work, and respect for the land.”

Shelmith Mwangi, Senior Consultant

“Proudly African, the cause of food security resonates deeply with me. I am honoured to play a role in supporting organisations within this sector as they seek to hire exceptional talent. It’s a commitment to ensuring that everyone has the right to access safe and nutritious food, aligning with the fundamental rights of each person to adequate food and freedom from hunger.”
